5. Next select Pricing Subproduct. Many times when using the Pricing Subproduct categories, the rate may be better than using the standard Product categories: FX15, FX20, FX30 year. The Pricing Subproduct categories selected should be the closest to the loan amount without going over the amount.

Note: Loan amounts cannot exceed the subproduct maximum, even if the loan amount falls within the 5% tolerance range.

6. There are two options that can be used when reviewing the rate sheet:

- View: Readable format
- Download: Excel format

7. Another feature is the Save Selection as Default. This feature saves your selections, so that the next time you want to review the rate sheets all you need to do is click View. You will not need to select the Product, Pricing Subproduct and the Remittance Type since it has been saved.

MPF Xtra—Reviewing the Rate Sheets

As a reminder, Loan Level Price Adjustments (LLPAs) are fees that go to Fannie Mae. These fees are not a part of the MPF price quote. You must determine the LLPAs due on each MPF Xtra loan. If the loan terms change, the LLPAs could change as well.

Prior to selecting your rate and premium, calculate your LLPAs

Pricing your Loan:

- Identify how long of a Delivery Commitment (rate lock) you will require. Identify the length needed to close and fund the loan.
- Determine the LLPAs using FNMA’s Matrix.
- Know the profit margin your institution wants to achieve.
- If applicable, determine the Servicing Released Premium (SRP). The SRP schedule can be found in the eMPF website under the Pricing tab.

- Delivery Commitment (rate lock) term: 30 day lock
- Required LLPA: 1%
- PFI Target Profit Margin: 2%

On the Rate sheet select the 30 day Commitment Term column, scroll down until to the 3% premium range. The rate would be 6.375% and the premium would be 3.1453%. Subtracting the LLPAs of 1% would yield a premium of 2.1453% for your institution.
